

Ecological Study about Vizhijham International Sea Port

As a part of the course Global Environmental History, the students of school social science did a minor field research on the basis of the Vizhijham Project. The members of the team included Anto Basil, Anandhu Vijayan, Vishnu v, Ajith Soman and Bhagyalekshmi. They have done the project during the peak of the vizhijham struggle. The group members have done a field study also. They took this topic to understand and make a deep study about the Vizhijham project and how it affects the people who lived in the coastal areas. This project really affects the livelihood of the local people, they always depended on the common resource i.e. sea. The documentary was concluded with the hope that the survival is still possible by the preservation of marine realm.
